

Smoke rising from fires set to clear land for agriculture in the Brazilian Amazon on July 3, 2003. Dark green areas are rain forest remnants, brown areas are cleared fields, and dark gray regions are recently burned fields. (Photograph taken by astronauts aboard the International Space Station. Image courtesy Image Science and Analysis Laboratory, NASA Johnson Space Center, photo number ISS007-E-9313.)